

ST. LOUIS VISITED BY WORST STORM

FIVE MISSING, 1,025 HOMES DESTROYED AND $1,000,000 PROPERTY LOSS.

NINE INCHES OF RAIN FRIDAY

Boats and Rafts Used to Rescue Citizens—River Des Peres a Mile Wide Torrent—Rain Continues to Fall.

St. Louis, Missouri.—Five persons known to be missing, 1,025 families rendered homeless and property damaged estimated to exceed $1,000,000 were some results of the record rainfall in St. Louis Thursday and Friday.

Until early this morning the water continued to rise in the vast flooded area in the West End, North and South St. Louis and in St. Louis county, and rescuers kept up the battle to save the lives of persons still imperiled.

Two families, consisting of 12 persons in all, are cut off in a house in the Carondelet district. Efforts to rescue them were without avail up to 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

The River des Peres, a mile-wide torrent in places, was sweeping through the western part of the city at that hour, suburban street car and train service was demoralized, thousands of homes, business houses and industrial plants were inundated and the water stood many feet deep in the streets in several parts of the city.

Great loss of life was prevented only by the heroic efforts of the police, members of the fire department and other branches of the city government and citizen volunteers, who worked with boats, from the park lakes, ladders, ropes and improvised rafts, rescuing persons marooned in their homes by the flood.

Official reports of the rainfall between 7 p. m. Thursday and the same hour Friday ranged from 7.02 inches in the downtown district to 9 inches in the western part of the city. The previous record in 24 hours in St. Louis was 5.98 inches in 1894.

The unprecedented precipitation was due to the great storm which swept Galveston and other gulf ports and then swept northward.

Warning of a flood stage of 30 feet for Saturday morning was issued for the Mississippi river at St. Louis. The warning applies to the river from Grafton to Chester.

Great damage was done and the lives of many more were imperiled on the east side of the river near St. Louis, according to reports from Alton, East St. Louis, Woodriver and other points.

Sofia, Bulgaria.—Gen. Fitzhugh, Bulgarian minister of war, has resigned on account of ill health. He is succeeded by Gen. Jacoff.

Macedonia Keynote.

Oakland, California.—Stephen Panaretos, minister from Bulgaria to the United States, who has arrived here from Washington, D. C., to attend the international congress on education being held under the auspices of the National Education Association in convention, said that Bulgaria's position with regard to the European war depended almost upon the annexation of Macedonia.

"On account of the similarity of customs and people," he said, "Bulgaria claims Macedonia for its own. The Macedonians are desirous of annexation. There are thousands of Macedonians in the United States who call themselves Bulgarians and who, when summoned by Serbia to the colors, turn up the summonses. If Bulgaria needs them, however, they will all go. We do not wish to get into the war, because we know too well what war is."

Washington.—Comptroller of the Currency Williams announced that the present unimpaired lending capacity of national banks and reserve banks was sufficient to finance at least $50,000,000 of cotton crop.

FRANCE HONORS ROUGET DE L'ISLE

On July 14, the national festival day of France, the nation paid fitting tribute to the composer of the national anthem, "The Marseillaise." The body of Rouget de l'Isle, the composer, was exhumed from its grave at Chateau de Roissy and with pomp and ceremony was conveyed to the Palace of the Invalides. The photograph shows the procession passing through the Arc de Triomphe in Paris.

GALLIOWS TREE PRESERVED COTTON NOW CONTRABAND

SOUVENIR HUNTERS WILL BE RULED OFF. STATEMENT IS MADE PUBLIC BY THE BRITISH EMBASSY.

Gov. Harris Will Pay $1,500 for First Three of Any Convictions Obtained.

Marietta, Georgia.—Watchmen were guarding the big oak tree two miles from here on which the lifeless body of Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, was found dangling last Tuesday morning, to prevent souvenir hunters or others from molesting it. The tree soon is to be surrounded with a concrete wall, it is announced, and thus preserved by the owner, W. J. Frey, to mark the death place of the alleged slayer of the Phagan girl.

Meanwhile the tree is being guarded night and day. It is said that Frey had declined an offer of $200 for it.

Visitors in Marietta in the last two days have been unusually numerous and virtually all have visited the scene of the lynching.

Atlanta, Georgia.—Gov. Harris has proclaimed a reward of $1,500 for the first three persons convicted of participation in the lynching of Leo M. Frank. At the same time he issued a statement declaring he would do all in his power to apprehend the perpetrators of the "unfortunate occurrence." In defense of the state authorities the governor pointed out that the prison farm from which Frank was abducted was not constructed to withstand attack from the outside.

The board of directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce unanimously adopted resolutions urging the governor and other state officials to exert every effort to apprehend and convict the men who lynched Frank.

Washington, D. C.—The allied governments have agreed in principle that cotton is contraband of war. The exact date when this announcement shall be made is still under consideration, as well as other details connected with the proclamation.

This statement was authorized at the British embassy.

As soon as the official announcement is made, it will be disclosed also that the allied governments have prepared to stand behind the market to prevent ruinous depression of prices and minimize hardships to planters.

The American government several days ago was informed unofficially of the intention of the allied governments to make cotton contraband and was informed that they will claim a legal right for their action.

It was explained here that the allies refrained from making cotton contraband at the outset of the war because of conditions in the United States, where a large crop had been planted and a contraband order then would, in their opinion, have been far more serious.

Now, the allies contend, the cotton states have been prepared for a change in policy by reductions of acreage. Some of the cotton interests, allied quarters acknowledged, may be affected by the change and for that reason it has been decided to stand behind the market to minimize the embarrassment and to avoid a permanent decrease in American cotton plantings which would be reflected in the industries of the allied countries.

TRIBUTE TO THE CANDIDATE

Had Known Him All His Life But Didn't Know What He Looked Like.

One morning, when Tom Shipp was running for congress in Indianapolis, a man called him up on the telephone and requested an interview with him. Shipp had a busy day before him, and intimated that opportunities for interviews were limited.

"Well, Tom," said the voice over the telephone, "you certainly ought to talk to me. I've known you ever since you were a little bit of a kid. You know that, don't you?"

"Yes," said Tom mendaciously. "I know that."

"And I've loved you as if you were my own son," continued the voice. "I've always been devoted to your interests. You know that, don't you, Tom?"

"Of course," agreed Shipp.

"And always," relentlessly pursued the admirer, "I've watched your career and noted with unspeakable pride your rapid advancement. It has made me happier than I can say. You know that, don't you, Tom?"

"Certainly," replied Tom, whose arm was beginning to ache from holding the receiver.

"You say you're too busy to see me in your office?" asked the admirer in an incredulous tone.

"I've got an engagement somewhere else," explained the candidate.

"Where will you be about half an hour from now?"

"In the lobby of the Claypool hotel," he gave the information.

"What part of the lobby?"

"Say, why do you want to know that?" asked Shipp.

"Well, you see," confided the other, "I want to be sure of finding you—and I really don't know what you look like."—Popular Magazine.

SEA FIGHT SPOILED FOREVER

At Least So Far as Being Favorite Theme for Artists Is Concerned.

Truman H. Newberry's comments on our naval equipment serve to remind us that a favorite theme of the artist the sea battle is spoiled forever.

Modern vessels fight at ten to seventeen miles, if they fight at all, and thrilling pictures such as Jones, Perry, Farragut, Nelson and Dewey have inspired probably will not be painted again.

Marine warfare has become very largely a matter of hide-and-seek anyway. So far has the gunmaker outstripped the armorplate builder that even a few seconds' firing would reduce millions of dollars' worth of ships to scrap-iron shambles.

And when the skulking menace of the submarine is considered we can understand how completely the traditions of sea fighting have been upset.

It was predicted that modern warfare on land would be stripped of all its former aspects, but we are told of bayonet charges, of trenches 40 yards apart, of steel helmets and even of full suits of armor being used. Yet on the sea what destruction has been wrought has been through methods far removed from the old-fashioned stand-up fight through which heroes of other days won their fame.

AUTO HORN JERICHO TRUMPET

Does Not Make Any Walls Fall But Signals Smashing of Speed Laws.

"This lady has a Jericho horn" on her auto.

Patrolman Helmuth made this accusation to Recorder Gaskill against Mrs. E. B. Frost of Philadelphia, passing the summer at 110 South Dorset avenue, Chelsea. Students of the Old Testament will remember that when Joshua and his hosts blew the then auto siren the walls of Jericho fell.

Mrs. Frost denied indignantly that she broke any walls, even that she broke the antiques law, although Helmuth charged that 40 miles an hour is a lame goat when Mrs. Frost drives.

"Five dollars fine," said Recorder Gaskill gently. "A warning, this fine. Try to add to the city's quietude by muffling that Jericho horn, I beg of you, madam."—New York World.

GAMES OF ZULU CHILDREN

Youngsters Have Their Own Amusements, Much as Do Those of Other Countries.

Zulu children are in most particulars exceedingly like any other children who chance to arrive in this world with white instead of black skins.

They play the same games, or, if girls, love the same dolls, as for the matter of that the old Egyptians did long ago.

Indeed, the doll make believe appears to be carried further than is common in civilized countries. Thus the small Kafirs build actual huts for them in place of the houses that here are provided ready-made from the toy shop.

They give them stones to grind their corn, mats for sleeping, pots for cooking, and so forth. They provide them with a cattle kraal stocked with clay oxen, goats and fowls. They marry them in a realistic manner, singing the appropriate songs.

The owner of a boy doll will manufacture and pay away ten clay cattle in order to supply it with a wife or wives in the shape of properly—or im properly—dressed female dolls, and with such married puppets a lad may play, although it is beneath his dignity to amuse himself with an unwed maiden doll.

So it is with everything else. They have their parties which last all night, and their clans that play with or more generally fight other clans belonging to the next kraal or tribe.

The sense of honor is very fully developed in them, and the sense of greediness still more—so much so, indeed, that they will stuff themselves with half-cooked and unplucked birds caught in the wild, which, did they bring home, they fear would be taken from them and eaten by their elders.

They manufacture excellent traps to catch these birds and other wild things, such as mice, which they also eat.

They possess an elaborate system of faggot, and a good fight with sticks, not fists, is the joy of their hearts.

As with our children, the boys look down upon the girls, except on certain occasions, when, for instance, a pair of them will share the same pempe, or bird scaring bait, in which they play at being sweethearts, the head boy choosing the best favored girl, or sometimes the prettiest girl selecting her own boy.
